The Stephen Olford Center at Union University invites you to join us Monday evenings this winter for a comprehensive study in strengthening your expository preaching ministry through web-based training for individuals or groups.

Because of the demands of ministry and the consequent shortage of time, we are making our classes available on Monday evenings by live video streaming over the Internet. These Distance Learning classes can be taken for credit towards an Associate of Divinity degree or for a non-credit audit.

At Union University, we also understand that everyone is not able to join us on Monday evenings. For this reason, our classes are also available through VOD, or our Video on Demand program, a web-based video format available at any time.

Strengthening Expository Preaching

Do you labor over your understanding of biblical literature in your sermon preparation? Do you long for your preaching to be clearer and more effective? Then join Union University at the Stephen Olford Center as we explore these questions each Monday evening to enhance your preaching.

This course is designed to strengthen each student’s expository preaching skills as they relate to challenging elements of sermon development, interpretive traps, and studying and preaching different types of biblical literature. Each Monday you will hear from Union’s top scholars as they address how to strengthen:

- Theological foundations of preaching
- Interpretation and application of Scripture
- Outlining and applying your sermons
- Power in your preaching

Among the lecturers for our in-depth study in strengthening expository preaching:

DR. KEN EASLEY holds a Ph.D. from Southwestern Baptist Seminary and has taught at undergraduate and graduate level courses for the last 25 years, specializing in New Testament and Greek. Ken has written numerous books and has served in various ministries throughout the South and Southwest. He is married to Nancy, Professor of Education at Union, and they have one son.

DR. DAVID L. OLFOR D holds the Stephen Olford Chair of Preaching at Union University, a professorship named in honor of his late father. He has served as President of Olford Ministries International and Director of Studies at Olford Biblical Training Center. Dr. Olford holds a B.A. and M.A. from Wheaton College and a Ph.D. from Sheffield University.

DR. ROGER PASCOE is the program director of the Olford Institutes at the Stephen Olford Center at Union University. After over 20 years of bi-vocational and full-time pastoral ministry, Roger has been teaching expository preaching and church leadership to seminary students and pastors in Canada, the United States and overseas. Dr. Pascoe holds a B.A. from Carleton University in Ottawa, a M.T.S. from Heritage Theological Seminary in Ontario, Canada and a D.Min. in Expository Preaching from Trinity Theological Seminary. To visit his Web site, go to www.tibp.ca.

DR. TED RENDALL is Institute Lecturer and Curator of the T.S. Rendall Collection. Dr. Rendall is a prolific author and served as editor of The Prairie Overcomer for 31 years. He is Chancellor Emeritus of the Prairie Bible Institute in Alberta, Canada and Pastor Emeritus of the Prairie Tabernacle Church, also in Alberta.

STEPHEN OLFORD (1918-2004) was one of the world’s most dynamic Christian leaders of the 20th Century. Throughout his life, he taught boldly and effectively about the importance of expository preaching, evangelistic teaching and spiritual growth. Many of his lectures were taped and will be used during these lecture series.
