

An Inklings Weekend

Friday evening April 5 – Sunday noon April 7, 2019

Join us in the Misty Mountains (locally known by the elves as the Smoky Mountains) at Rivendell (known locally as Montreat College) near Black Mountain, NC as we consider

“Jack and Warnie: Brothers and Friends”

C. S. Lewis and his brother W. H. Lewis were best friends throughout their lives. This year at the Inklings Weekend in Montreat, we will spend time getting to know the brothers better. At times their relationship was strained during teenage years and then for the long separation after World War I before Warnie returned from China to make his home at the Kilns. For most of their lives, however, they were the best of company to one another. In the context of their relationship, Jack wrote the books that made him famous, and Warnie wrote six books of French history that brought him honor. Join us as we enjoy the brothers Lewis, led by Don King who is finishing work on his biography of Warnie, and Hal Poe who has just finished his biography of Jack.

Featuring music, worship, food, and good conversation with

Don King is finishing work on the first biography of Major Warren H. Lewis. King is one of the most prolific scholars of C. S. Lewis and those closest to him. He has written a number of books about Lewis, Joy Davidman, and Ruth Pitter, including C. S. Lewis, Poet: The Legacy of His Poetic Impulse, Hunting the Unicorn: A Critical Biography of Ruth Pitter, and Yet One More Spring: A Critical Study of Joy Davidman. King edited the Christian Scholar's Review for many years and teaches literature at Montreat College.

Hal Poe has just finished a biography of the young Jack Lewis to be published by Crossway. He is the author of nineteen books that deal with how the gospel intersect culture; including C. S. Lewis Remembered and The Inklings of Oxford. He won the Edgar Award from the Mystery Writers of America in 2009 and was named a fellow of the American Scientific Affiliation for his books on science and the Christian faith. Poe serves as Charles Colson Professor of Faith and Culture at Union University.
